*Dr. Laura A. Riffel, has over 30 years of experience teaching children pre-school through high school. She taught regular and special education in three different states. Visit www.behaviordoctor.org

*She uses comedy and real world examples to teach audiences about the 9 essential skills for Love and Logic and the learners will focus on six specific techniques: Probably So, Choices, Enforceable Statements, Five Ways To Give Problems Back to Kids, One-Sentence Interventions, Setting Limits.

*Participants will leave with ideas they can use the very next day.

*Participants will also learn techniques to avoid taking the bait when students send out the hook.

If you would like to request materials in an alternate format or request an accommodation such as ASL interpreter or CART, please contact the Paul V. Sherlock Center on Disabilities at Rhode Island College at 401-456-8072 by November 7th.
